Workshop Description

What role could Massive Open Online Courses (MOOCs) play in small private liberal arts colleges? This workshop will explore questions of how MOOCs intersect with the traditional mission and teaching methods of a residential liberal arts college, asking:

- Conceptually:
  - What would a liberal arts approach to MOOCs look like? What might be some liberal arts best practices involve?
  - Why offer a MOOC as a residential liberal arts institution?
  - If we go beyond the polarized discourse about MOOCs, do we discover that deeper questions arise around what contributes to effective teaching, learning, and critical engagement?

- Pedagogically:
  - Can MOOCs help improve instruction generally? Might we teach traditional courses differently based on experiences from MOOCs?
  - Can/should MOOCs supplement traditional curricula, especially to support students who are insufficiently prepared?
  - MOOCs are touted for their on-campus benefits in flipped classroom teaching; when (for what subjects) does this work well, and when not?
  - Can the international students in a MOOC engage in any meaningful way with residential students on campus? Can residential students learn from their professor's MOOC?
  - Does the experience of offering a MOOC change how faculty use technology in their classrooms?
  - What is the evidence for MOOC learning outcomes?

- Administratively:
  - What is (are) the business models for offering MOOCs?
  - What are the conceptual, technical, and financial challenges and drawbacks of offering a MOOC?
  - How much time does it take, how much support does a faculty member need, in order to create a MOOC?
  - If academic credit is awarded, what mechanisms work to verify student identity?

- Assessment & Data:
  - How do we know what students learn through MOOCs?
  - Can analysis of MOOC data tell us what course information students do not learn well, or why students get answers wrong?
  - What has Wesleyan learned from its surveys of students in its MOOCs?

Two AALAC members—Wesleyan (Coursera) and Wellesley (EdX) are actively developing and offering MOOCs, and Bryn Mawr has taken leadership in hybridizing online learning in support of residential education. Amherst recently made headlines by deciding not to partner with EdX. Barnard’s Center for Research on Women has an energetic web outreach program of video and multimedia resources on feminist scholarship for open access by scholars and the public. Faculty from each of these five institutions will participate in this workshop.

More and more institutions feel compelled by their boards and alumni to take a stance on how MOOCs, flipped classrooms, hybrid learning, online learning, and open online access to course materials and faculty scholarship in general might or might not fit into their pedagogical vision. The goal of this workshop is to go beyond the hype to discuss the substantive questions of where MOOCs can and cannot succeed in teaching the liberal arts and to understand how to capture the potential benefits, acknowledge the downsides, and learn from actual experiences of faculty who have created MOOCs.

Workshop Participants

Wesleyan University

*#Lisa Dierker, Professor of Psychology, instructor of Coursera MOOC “Passion Driven Statistics”

Scott Higgins, Associate Professor of Film Studies, instructor of Coursera MOOC “The Language of Hollywood: Storytelling, Sound, and Color”

Barnard College

*Janet Jakobsen, Ann Whitney Olin Professor of Women’s, Gender, & Sexuality Studies, Director of the Barnard Center for Research on Women

Wellesley College

Adam Van Arsdale, Assistant Professor of Anthropology, instructor of WellesleyX course “Introduction to Human Evolution”

Guy MacLean Rogers, Mildred Lane Kemper Professor of Classics and History, instructor of WellesleyX course “Was Alexander Great? The Life, Leadership, and Legacies of History’s Greatest Warrior”

Bryn Mawr College

Susan White, Professor of Chemistry

Amherst College

*Austin Sarat, Associate Dean of Faculty, Professor of Political Science

*(*indicates workshop organizer; #indicates workshop liaison)*

Budget

Travel & accommodation for faculty participants & AALAC attendees	$15,000
Meals & coffee breaks during workshop	$2500
Staff support (student workers)	$250
Administrative expenses	$250
Stipends for workshop organizers Three organizers @$500 each	$1500
Stipend for workshop liaison	$500
Total	$20,000

CURRICULUM VITAE

EDUCATION

- 1994 Ph.D., Developmental Psychology, University of Connecticut, Storrs, CT
- 1992 M.A., Developmental Psychology, University of Connecticut, Storrs, CT
- 1990 B.A., Ohio State University, Columbus, OH

CAREER

- 2008-- Professor, Department of Psychology, Wesleyan University, Middletown, CT
- 2008-- Affiliated Faculty, Methodology Center, Penn State University, State College, PA
- 2009--2012 Chair, Department of Psychology, Wesleyan University, Middletown, CT
- 2007--2012 Chair, Quantitative Analysis Center, Wesleyan University, Middletown, CT
- 2008--2009 Visiting Scholar, The Methodology Center, Penn State University, State College, PA
- 2003--2008 Associate Professor, Department of Psychology, Wesleyan University, Middletown, CT
- 1997--2003 Assistant Professor, Department of Psychology, Wesleyan University, Middletown, CT
- 1997--2002 Research Affiliate, Yale University, School of Medicine, Department of Epidemiology and Public Health, New Haven, CT
- 1996--1997 Associate Research Scientist, Yale University, School of Medicine, Department of Epidemiology and Public Health, New Haven, CT
- 1994--1996 NIMH Post-Doctoral Fellow, Yale University, School of Medicine, Department of Epidemiology and Public Health, New Haven, CT

- 1995--1997     Project Director, “Minority Children at High Risk for Alcohol Related Problems”, “Vulnerability for Drug Abuse in Puerto Rican Children: A Migrant Study” funded by the National Institutes of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism (NIAAA) and Drug Abuse (NIDA)
- 1993            Visiting Lecturer, Department of Psychology, Trinity College, Hartford, CT
- 1992-1993     Instructor, Department of Psychology, University of Connecticut, Storrs, CT

RESEARCH GRANTS

- 2011—2013     National Institute on Drug Abuse (NIDA)– R21DA029834. Integrative Data Analysis for Nicotine Dependence Symptoms in Novice Smokers, Co-investigator, J.Rose (PI), $275,000 in direct costs.
- 2010—2011     National Institute on Drug Abuse (NIDA)– R01 Supplement. Integrative Data Analysis (IDA): Exploring Individual Differences in Smoking Exposure and Nicotine Dependence Sensitivity: Principal Investigator. $150,000 in direct costs.
- 2010—2015     National Institute on Drug Abuse (NIDA)– P50 subcontract through Penn State University. Penn State Center for Prevention and Treatment Methodology: $209,000 in direct costs.
- 2010—2015     National Cancer Institute (NCI) P01. Subcontract through the University of Illinois, Chicago. Social Emotional Contexts of Adolescent Smoking Patterns. $340,000 in direct costs.
- 2010—2012     National Science Foundation (NSF) – CCLI. An inquiry-based, supportive approach to statistical reasoning and application, Principal Investigator. $175,000.<sup>1</sup>
- 2010             Lauren B. Dachs Grant in Support of Interdisciplinary Research in the Social Impacts of Science, Middlesex County Substance Abuse Data Network. Principal Investigator. $10,000 in direct costs.
- 2009—2011     National Institute on Drug Abuse (NIDA)– R01. Individual Differences in Smoking Exposure and Nicotine Dependence Sensitivity: Principal Investigator. $300,000 in direct costs.
- 2009—2010     Peter F. McManus Charitable Trust. Individual Differences in Alcohol Exposure and Alcohol Dependence Sensitivity. Principal Investigator. $50,000 in direct costs.
- 2007—2011     National Institutes of Health (NIH) Road Map Initiative- R21. New Statistical Models for Intensive Longitudinal Data. Principal Investigator with Runze Li (Penn State). $1,000,000 in direct costs.

CURRENT RESEARCH

Characterization of a biologically important RNA-protein interaction using biochemical, molecular biological, biophysical, and thermodynamic methods. The system is the yeast L30e ribosomal protein that binds to its own RNA transcript and inhibits splicing. We are interested in characterizing the RNA and protein features which contribute to this molecular recognition event.

INVITED TALKS

"Why is an RNA Internal Loop Attractive for Protein Binding?: The Yeast L32 System", Philadelphia Area Nucleic Acids Group, Thomas Jefferson University, 9/97.

Chemistry Department, The Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, MD, 9/97.

"Why is an RNA Internal Loop Attractive for Protein Binding?: The Yeast L32 System" University of Connecticut Medical School, April, 1998.

"Delving into an RNA-Protein Interface" Department of Molecular Biology and Biochemistry, Wesleyan University, Middletown, CT. 3/99.

"Bending Backwards for RNA", HHMI summer program, Bryn Mawr College, 6/99.

"Exploring an RNA-Protein Interaction" Chemistry Dept., Haverford College, 9/99, Bryn Mawr College, 10/99.

"Exploring an RNA-Protein Interface" Department of Biochemistry and Molecular Biophysics, Columbia University, College of Physicians and Surgeons, 5/00.

"An RNA Odyssey" COURS Keynote Speaker—Central Ohio Undergraduate Research Symposium hosted by The Chemistry Department of Kenyon College, 11/01.

"Biochemistry that Matters: Malaria and Medicinal Plants" Mellon New Directions Fellows Conference, Wellesley College, June, 2002.

"Intérazions ARN/Protéines" Laboratoire de Biochimie et de Biologie Moléculaire, FAST, Université d'Abomey Calavi, Benin, West Africa, 2/2003

"Intérazions ARN/Protéines et Biologie Moléculaire" Laboratoire de Physiologie Animale, Faculté des Sciences, Université de Lomé, Togo, West Africa, 5/2003

"Ribosomal Protein L30: From Yeast to Malaria (and back)" Chemistry Department Colloquium, February 27, 2004

"Protein-RNA Recognition: Yeast Ribosomal Protein L30e Suppressors and Kink-turn RNA Mutants" Susan White, Jim Schweppe, and Cheryl Selah Talk and Poster presented at the 14th Conversation, Albany June, 2005 J. Biomol. Struc. Dyn. 22(6) p. 831.

"Kink-turn RNA Mutants and Yeast Ribosomal Protein L30e Suppressors" Susan A. White, James J. Schweppe, and Cheryl Selah, Marisha Banerji, and Natalee Smith. Symposium on RNA Biology VI: RNA: Tool and Target, Oct. 2005. Talk presented in North Carolina.

"The Yeast L30 Kink Turn RNA-Protein Interaction" Susan A. White, James Schweppe, and Cheryl Selah. Talk and poster presented in San Francisco, CA, April, 2006 Experimental Biology. Abstract published in FASEB J. 20: A932-b.

"Kinky RNA and Flexible Protein: Neither Lock nor Key" October, 2005, Chemistry Department, Ursinus College, Collegeville, PA.

"Kinky RNA and Flexible Protein: Neither Lock nor Key" April, 2006, Chemistry Department, St. Joseph's University, Philadelphia, PA.

"Curriculum Implementation in the Sciences A Student-Centered Approach: The New ACS General Chemistry Text"—March, 2006 Math Science Partnership of Greater Philadelphia, meeting held at Bryn Mawr. Again—Fall 2006 Ridley High School.

"Catalyzing, Knocking Down, and Kinking: Views from the RNA World" Main Line School Night" April, 2007.

Faculty Panel on Martin Luther King Day, Bryn Mawr College, 1/21/2008.

"From Molecular Biology to NGOs in Togo" International Civic Engagement: NGOs in the Global South, Bryn Mawr College, 1/31/2008

"From Peace Corps Togo to Bryn Mawr College" Talk given to "Dinner with a Stranger" sponsored by International Justice Coalition, a student-led group, May, 2009.

"20 Years of Learning and Teaching about HIV/AIDS" Science Lecture Series, Quadrangle, Haverford, PA. Oct. 19, 2010.

"Bringing Online Peer Review into Blended Teaching" 2013 Blended Learning in the Liberal Arts Conference, Bryn Mawr College, May 20, 2013.

PROFESSIONAL ACTIVITIES

Panelist for NSF Major Research Instrumentation May, 2002, Washington DC

Participated in 3-day review of Bates College Chemistry Department, Feb. 2002

Editorial Board BAMBED (Biochemistry and Molecular Biology Education) 2006-present

Question Writer and Reviewer for Biochemistry GRE, ETS, Spring 2007-2009, 2011-2013.

Outside Examiner, Chemistry Department, Swarthmore College, May, 2008

Participant, NSF-funded POGIL Biochemistry Summer Workshop, Seattle, WA July 10-13, 2008 and Minneapolis, MN, July 7-11, 2009

Participant, Teaching Learning Initiative Workshops, Spring, 2009.

Participant in NSF sponsored Biochemistry Workshop on Mitochondria—June, 2011 University of Puerto, Rico.
